

Web Education / Digital Literacy Workshop 2016 Chairs' Welcome

It is our great pleasure to welcome you to the 1st Workshop on “Web Education: Teaching Digital Literacies associated with WWW 2016.

The dynamics of Web Education and Digital Literacies are among today’s most important issues surrounding the development of the Web as an efficient, safe and universal information system.

A wide range of disciplines including sociology, economics, political studies, health and management science have integrated courses and specializations to teach about the Web, its nature, its realities, its impact its evolution and its integration into every dimension of human activity.

The workshop will gather a very broad community of participants: professors involved in digital literacy programs or courses, consultants empowering employees in a company, students or faculty in an interdisciplinary program or activists in an NGO teaching the Web to kids.

The call for short papers attracted submissions from Asia, Europe and Canada. The program committee has reviewed and accepted 7 submissions.

The workshop will also be preceded and followed by online activities on the Bookwitty.com platform. These activities aim to not only strengthen links within the Web Education Community, but also to gather and present the outcomes of the workshop.

We thank the authors for submitting their papers and accepting to present them at the workshop. We also would like to thank the WWW 2016 workshop chairs for support in organizing the workshop.

Stéphane Bazan
Workshop Chair

Kristine Gloria
Workshop Chair

Su White
Workshop Chair

Web Education / Digital Literacy Workshop 2016 Organization

Program Chairs: Kristine Maria Gloria (Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute – USA)
Stéphane B. Bazan (Keeward, Beirut, Lebanon)
Su White (University of Southampton, UK)